The Grand Rapids Social Diary is in the process of compiling a prototype website. Recently, we have covered some of Grand Rapids most exciting events.

Some of our most recent shoots have been at an exhibit featuring artist Mikey Welsh at the Winchester, the Humane Society's Annual Bissell Blocktail Party fundraising event and Randy's Granola Launch party at the HopCat.

This month we will be at the UICA Nosh Night event, John Ball Zoo Society's Annual Fundraiser and the Local-First Street Party. Having our photographers at these events has generated a lot of excitement! We have a few other fun dates scheduled to cover throughout June.

Our team has many facets of talent. Michael Buck and Tim Motley, professional photographers, are two of Grand Rapids' most visible people behind the camera. Brandon Gohsman, Echobox, is our talented website designer/developer and another one of our talented, amateur photographers. Lastly, Tommy Fitzgerald, Tommy Fitzgerald Group, contributes to the culinary corner of the site.

The photos that are taken will be used exclusively for our site. High resolution digital photos will be available to purchase through the Grand Rapids Social Diary website which links directly to both of our photographers. They have agreed to charge $5 per download. At fundraising events, $1 of all proceeds will be donated to the charity of choice.

If you are expecting any exciting events this summer that you would like us to attend, please let us know. We would love to take a look at your event.

Through the end of September we're offering a terrific opportunity to local businesses. We would like to have you run an ad. If you need one designed, we are happy to provide that service also.

Please help support our new endeavor that promotes Grand Rapids' events by placing your identity on the Grand Rapids Social Diary website.
